

- Documentation of Sources

-Degree Directory. (2011, may 9). Cardiologist: Job duties, occupational outlook, and education prerequisites. Retrieved from

http://degreedirectory.org/articles/Cardiologist Job Duties Occupational Outlook and Education Prerequisites.html

-Cardiologist: Job duties, occupational outlook, and education prerequisites. (2010, November 12). Retrieved from http://academyphysicians.com/Physician Recruiting Journal/cardiologist-job-duties-occupational-outlook-and-education-prerequisites/

- Self-Reflection

-This person in this career is related to what we are studying because Anna Garcia would have been visiting a Cardiologist with her heart problems. Personally, I find this career extremely interesting. The beating of our heart is what keeps us alive each day, and it would be great to study for a career. Also, my step-father is a cardiologist so it would be neat to follow in his footsteps and become a cardiologist or related specialization. This is definitely something that I could see myself pursuing.